5.4 Study Area: Governance

Course Number 00LE62S-LAS-G00015 Semester - Dates S S 2015/16 - Block Ill+IV Study Area(s) Governance, Electives Credit Points 3 ECTS (SL) + 3 ECTS (PL) Advanced Governance I or II, Specialization Option: Politics, Law, and Administration Elective Module(s) (StuPo 2012) Open to Students Year(s) 2.3.4 Max. Enroll-ment 20 Prerequisites Introduction to Governance Instructor(s) Part 1: Lusine Badalyan (Lbadalyan@jacobs-university.de); Part 2: Charles Marquand (C.Marquand@4stonebuildings.com.) Seminar, Workshops Part 1 (Badalyan); 16-19h on Thu 28.04., FMF HS 01009 Wed 25.05., AU 01036a Thu 02.06., FMF HS 01009 Wed 25.05., AU 01036a Thu 02.06., FMF HS 01009 Thu 09.06., FMF HS 01009 Thu 09.06. AU 01042 Part 2 (Marquand): 9-17h on Fridays, 08.07-29.07., FMF HS 01009 The Comparative Constitution course consists of two parts taught over the summer semester. Part 1 offers a short introduction into comparative politics and concentrates on the separation of powers, elections and electoral systems, and political participation in Russia and countries of Central and Eastern Europe. It is offered by Lusine Badalyan. This part of the module is taught as weekly 3-hour sessions in the period between April 28 and June 16. Course Description Part 2 of the course concentrates on the constitutional system and law of the United Kingdom. It is organized as three Friday workshop sessions, covering respectively on the separation of powers (the concept of parliamentary sovereignty more precisely), the party and political system, and the judicial system. The workshops all take place on Fridays in July: This part of the course lead to be taken and successfully completed to complete the module. Both parts contribute to the grade (50/50). It is not possible to take only Part 1 or Part 2 of the course.	Comparative Constitution and Politics
Advanced Governance I or II, Specialization Option: Politics, Law, and Administration Elective Year(s) 2,3,4 Max. Enroll- ment Year(s) 2,3,4 Max. Enroll- ment Max. Enroll- ment Year(s) 2,3,4 Max. Enroll- ment Zo Introduction to Governance Instructor(s) Part 1: Lusine Badalyan (I.badalyan@jacobs-university.de); Part 2: Charles Marquand (C.Marquand@4stonebuildings.com,) Seminar, Workshops Part 1 (Badalyan): 16-19h on Thu 28.04., FMF HS 01009 Wed 04.05., AU 01036a Thu 10.2.06., FMF HS 01009 Thu 09.06., FMF HS 01009 Thu 09.06., FMF HS 01009 Thu 16.06., AU 01042 Part 2 (Marquand): 9-17h on Fridays, 08.0729.07., FMF HS 01009 The Comparative Constitution course consists of two parts taught over the summer semester. Part 1 offers a short introduction into comparative politics and concentrates on the separation of powers, elections and electoral systems, and political participation in Russia and countries of Central and Eastern Europe. It is offered by Lusine Badalyan. This part of the module is taught as weekly 3-hour sessions in the period between April 28 and June 16. Course Description Part 2 of the course concentrates on the constitutional system and law of the United Kingdom. It is organized as three Friday workshop sessions, covering respectively on the separation of powers (the concept of parliamentary sovereignty more precisely), the party and political system, and the judicial system. The workshops all take place on Fridays in July. This part of the course is taught by Charles Marquand, a practicing lawyer from the module. Both parts of the course need to be taken and successfully completed to complete the module. Both parts of the course is taught by Charles Marquand, a practicing lawyer from the united for the course is to the grade (50/50). It is not possible to take only Part 1 or Part 2 of the course.	Course Number	00LE62S-LAS-GO0015		SS 2015/16 - Block III+IV
Module(s) (StuPo 2012) Advanced Governance I or II, Specialization Option: Politics, Law, and Administration Elective Year(s) 2,3,4 Max. Enroll-ment Year(s) 2,3,4 Max. Enroll-ment Prerequisites Instructor(s) Part 1: Lusine Badalyan (I.badalyan@jacobs-university.de); Part 2: Charles Marquand (C.Marquand@4stonebuildings.com,) Seminar, Workshops Part 1 (Badalyan): 16-19h on Thu 28.04., FMF HS 01009 Wed 04.05., AU 01036a Thu 12.05., FMF HS 01009 Thu 09.06., FMF HS 01009 Thu 09.06., FMF HS 01009 Thu 16.06., AU 01042 Part 2 (Marquand): 9-17h on Fridays, 08.0729.07., FMF HS 01009 The Comparative Constitution course consists of two parts taught over the summer semester. Part 1 offers a short introduction into comparative politics and concentrates on the separation of powers, elections and electoral systems, and political participation in Russia and countries of Central and Eastern Europe. It is offered by Lusine Badalyan. This part of the module is taught as weekly 3-hour sessions in the period between April 28 and June 16. Course Description Course Description Part 2 of the course concentrates on the constitutional system and law of the United Kingdom. It is organized as three Friday workshop sessions, covering respectively on the separation of powers (the concept of parliamentary sovereignty more precisely), the party and political system, and the judicial system. The workshops all take place on Fridays in July. This part of the course is taught by Charles Marquand, a practicing lawyer from the UK. Both parts of the course need to be taken and successfully completed to complete the module. Both parts contribute to the grade (50/50). It is not possible to take only Part 1 or Part 2 of the course.	Study Area(s)	Governance, Electives	Credit Points	3 ECTS (SL) + 3 ECTS (PL)
dents Prearquisites Introduction to Governance Instructor(s) Part 1: Lusine Badalyan (l.badalyan@jacobs-university.de); Part 2: Charles Marquand (C.Marquand@4stonebuildings.com,) Seminar, Workshops Part 1 (Badalyan): 16-19h on Thu 28.04., FMF HS 01009 Wed 04.05., AU 01036a Thu 12.05., FMF HS 01009 Wed 25.05., AU 01036a Thu 09.06., FMF HS 01009 Thu 09.06., FMF HS 01009 Thu 16.06., AU 01042 Part 2 (Marquand): 9-17h on Fridays, 08.0729.07., FMF HS 01009 The Comparative Constitution course consists of two parts taught over the summer semester. Part 1 offers a short introduction into comparative politics and concentrates on the separation of powers, elections and electoral systems, and political participation in Russia and countries of Central and Eastern Europe. It is offered by Lusine Badalyan. This part of the module is taught as weekly 3-hour sessions in the period between April 28 and June 16. Course Description Course Description Part 2 of the course concentrates on the constitutional system and law of the United Kingdom. It is organized as three Friday workshop sessions, covering respectively on the separation of powers (the concept of parliamentary sovereignty more precisely), the party and political system, and the judicial system. The workshops all take place on Fridays in July. This part of the course need to be taken and successfully completed to complete the module. Both parts contribute to the grade (50/50). It is not possible to take only Part 1 or Part 2 of the course.	` ,	Specialization Option: Politics, Law, and Administration		Regional Governance, Specialization Option Governance I or II
Instructor(s) Part 1: Lusine Badalyan (I.badalyan@jacobs-university.de); Part 2: Charles Marquand (C.Marquand@4stonebuildings.com.) Seminar, Workshops Part 1 (Badalyan): 16-19h on Thu 28.04., FMF HS 01009 Wed 04.05., AU 01036a Thu 12.05., FMF HS 01009 Wed 25.05., AU 01036a Thu 09.06., FMF HS 01009 Thu 09.06., FMF HS 01009 Thu 16.06., AU 01042 Part 2 (Marquand): 9-17h on Fridays, 08.0729.07., FMF HS 01009 The Comparative Constitution course consists of two parts taught over the summer semester. Part 1 offers a short introduction into comparative politics and concentrates on the separation of powers, elections and electoral systems, and political participation in Russia and countries of Central and Eastern Europe. It is offered by Lusine Badalyan. This part of the module is taught as weekly 3-hour sessions in the period between April 28 and June 16. Part 2 of the course concentrates on the constitutional system and law of the United Kingdom. It is organized as three Friday workshop sessions, covering respectively on the separation of powers (the concept of parliamentary sovereignty more precisely), the party and political system, and the judicial system. The workshops all take place on Fridays in July. This part of the course is taught by Charles Marquand, a practicing lawyer from the UK. Both parts of the course need to be taken and successfully completed to complete the module. Both parts contribute to the grade (50/50). It is not possible to take only Part 1 or Part 2 of the course.		Year(s) 2,3,4		20
Instructor(s) Part 2: Charles Marquand (C.Marquand@4stonebuildings.com,) Seminar, Workshops Part 1 (Badalyan): 16-19h on Thu 28.04., FMF HS 01009 Wed 04.05., AU 01036a Thu 12.05., FMF HS 01009 Wed 25.05., AU 01036a Thu 09.06., FMF HS 01009 Thu 09.06., FMF HS 01009 Thu o9.06., FMF HS 01009 Thu o9.06., AU 01042 Part 2 (Marquand): 9-17h on Fridays, 08.0729.07., FMF HS 01009 The Comparative Constitution course consists of two parts taught over the summer semester. Part 1 offers a short introduction into comparative politics and concentrates on the separation of powers, elections and electoral systems, and political participation in Russia and countries of Central and Eastern Europe. It is offered by Lusine Badalyan. This part of the module is taught as weekly 3-hour sessions in the period between April 28 and June 16. Course Description Course Description Part 2 of the course concentrates on the constitutional system and law of the United Kingdom. It is organized as three Friday workshop sessions, covering respectively on the separation of powers (the concept of parliamentary sovereignty more precisely), the party and political system, and the judicial system. The workshops all take place on Fridays in July. This part of the course is taught by Charles Marquand, a practicing lawyer from the UK. Both parts of the course need to be taken and successfully completed to complete the module. Both parts contribute to the grade (50/50). It is not possible to take only Part 1 or Part 2 of the course.	Prerequisites	Introduction to Governance
Part 1 (Badalyan): 16-19h on Thu 28.04., FMF HS 01009 Wed 04.05., AU 01036a Thu 12.05., FMF HS 01009 Wed 25.05., AU 01036a Thu 02.06., FMF HS 01009 Thu 09.06., FMF HS 01009 Thu 09.06., FMF HS 01009 Thu 16.06., AU 01042 Part 2 (Marquand): 9-17h on Fridays, 08.0729.07., FMF HS 01009 The Comparative Constitution course consists of two parts taught over the summer semester. Part 1 offers a short introduction into comparative politics and concentrates on the separation of powers, elections and electoral systems, and political participation in Russia and countries of Central and Eastern Europe. It is offered by Lusine Badalyan. This part of the module is taught as weekly 3-hour sessions in the period between April 28 and June 16. Course Description Course Description Part 2 of the course concentrates on the constitutional system and law of the United Kingdom. It is organized as three Friday workshop sessions, covering respectively on the separation of powers (the concept of parliamentary sovereignty more precisely), the party and political system, and the judicial system. The workshops all take place on Fridays in July. This part of the course is taught by Charles Marquand, a practicing lawyer from the UK. Both parts of the course need to be taken and successfully completed to complete the module. Both parts contribute to the grade (50/50). It is not possible to take only Part 1 or Part 2 of the course.	Instructor(s)
semester. Part 1 offers a short introduction into comparative politics and concentrates on the separation of powers, elections and electoral systems, and political participation in Russia and countries of Central and Eastern Europe. It is offered by Lusine Badalyan. This part of the module is taught as weekly 3-hour sessions in the period between April 28 and June 16. Part 2 of the course concentrates on the constitutional system and law of the United Kingdom. It is organized as three Friday workshop sessions, covering respectively on the separation of powers (the concept of parliamentary sovereignty more precisely), the party and political system, and the judicial system. The workshops all take place on Fridays in July. This part of the course is taught by Charles Marquand, a practicing lawyer from the UK. Both parts of the course need to be taken and successfully completed to complete the module. Both parts contribute to the grade (50/50). It is not possible to take only Part 1 or Part 2 of the course.		Part 1 (Badalyan): 16-19h on Thu 28.04., FMF HS 01009 Wed 04.05., AU 01036a Thu 12.05., FMF HS 01009 Wed 25.05., AU 01036a Thu 02.06., FMF HS 01009 Thu 09.06., FMF HS 01009 Thu 16.06., AU 01042 Part 2 (Marquand):
		Part 1 offers a short introduction into comparative politics and concentrates on the separation of powers, elections and electoral systems, and political participation in Russia and countries of Central and Eastern Europe. It is offered by Lusine Badalyan. This part of the module is taught as weekly 3-hour sessions in the period between April 28 and June 16. Part 2 of the course concentrates on the constitutional system and law of the United Kingdom. It is organized as three Friday workshop sessions, covering respectively on the separation of powers (the concept of parliamentary sovereignty more precisely), the party and political system, and the judicial system. The workshops all take place on Fridays in July. This part of the course is taught by Charles Marquand, a practicing lawyer from the UK. Both parts of the course need to be taken and successfully completed to complete the module. Both parts contribute to the grade (50/50). It is not possible to take only Part 1 or
Remarks	Remarks	. a.c. 2 or and obdition			